

ISD Virtual Learning

Geography/Globalization

April 23, 2020

World Geography

Lesson 24: April 23, 2020

Objective/Learning Target:

What are negative impacts of globalization?

Warm Up

From looking at this cartoon what can you conclude about Globalization?

Warm Up

From looking at this cartoon what can you conclude about Globalization? Students should talk about jobs moving to other countries because of globalization.

What are the negative effects of globalization?

1. Developed nations have outsourced manufacturing and white collar jobs.
 1. That means less jobs for their people. This has happened because manufacturing work is outsourced to developing nations like China where the cost of manufacturing goods and wages are lower.
2. Globalization has led to exploitation of labor.
 1. Prisoners and child workers are used to work in inhumane conditions. Safety standards are ignored to produce cheap goods.
3. Terrorists have access to sophisticated weapons enhancing their ability to inflict damage.
4. Companies have set up industries causing pollution in countries with poor regulation of pollution.
5. Fast food chains like McDonalds and KFC are spreading in the developing world.
 1. People are consuming more junk food from these joints which has an adverse impact on their health.

After few days of working on the project...

Let's go to the presenting room. It is time to present! Remember, people all have different perspectives related to globalization. They exist because of different experiences and backgrounds.

Group 1 is first, talking about local effects...

Positive and Negative Effects of Globalization Aspect: Local

- Benefits
- access any product
 - population increase, culture mix
- Drawbacks
- loss of traditional culture
 - surplus population

The benefits locally are that we can access more products and goods from across the world at an efficient price point. Also, the number of migrants and immigrants increase, especially in a big city. I am from this town, and I see people with different cultural backgrounds.

However, globalization cause the loss of traditional cultures in certain place, such as our town. I come from Mexico and my family are immigrants. This also increases the population of foreigners.

Group 2 is second, talking about national effects...

Positive and Negative Effects of Globalization Aspect: National

- Benefits
- social entrepreneurs & commercialization
 - goods in market increase
- Drawbacks
- patriotism decrease
 - consumption increase & consumerism

There are also national influences. The country are more entrepreneurs in the country, causing it to be more commercialized. The products in the market also increases, along with the importing and exporting of goods. For example, according to my dad, who has a job relating to international trade, occasionally there were ups and downs in the market. Sometimes they are good and sometimes they are bad, depending on the perspective of different nations.

One drawback is the decrease of patriotism due to the mix of cultures in the nation. However, it might also be a benefit. Another drawback is the increase of consumption in the country due to surplus population. Consumerism is another factor that relates to marketing.

The last presenter will talk about global effects...

Positive and Negative Effects of Globalization Aspect: Global

- Benefits
- interconnectedness & global interaction
 - popular culture
 - free trade
 - [multinationals]
 - global citizen
- Drawbacks
- trade & market [multinationals]
 - popular culture

It is time to talk about the global effects of globalization! There are many benefits. One is the interconnectedness between nations, especially through technology and the internet, allowing better and faster global interactions. There are also factors which can be positive and negative, such as trade. Free trade allows the movement of goods and services among nations without political or economic barriers, multinational companies are the most successful ones. Popular culture is another effect. More people has the same cultural traits, which are part of today's changeable, urban-based, media-influenced societies.

And finally...

Positive and Negative Effects of Globalization Summary

Globalization has many benefits, but more people should be aware of the negative effects it has. That way, we will be able to create a better world.

Good job everyone presenting! I hope we have learned a lot from this project. Now, our unit has come to an end. Let's celebrate!

Yay! We really have learned a lot. Let's celebrate!!

The Negative Effects of Globalization

Growing Gap between the Rich and the Poor.

While the rich are getting richer, the poor are struggling for a square meal. If the current Occupy Wall Street protests are a reminder of how angry people are with the current set-up, then those who govern us should take notice, and work towards alleviating poverty. Ideally, globalization should have resulted in creation of wealth and prosperity, but corporate greed and corrupt government has ensured that money is not distributed equally.

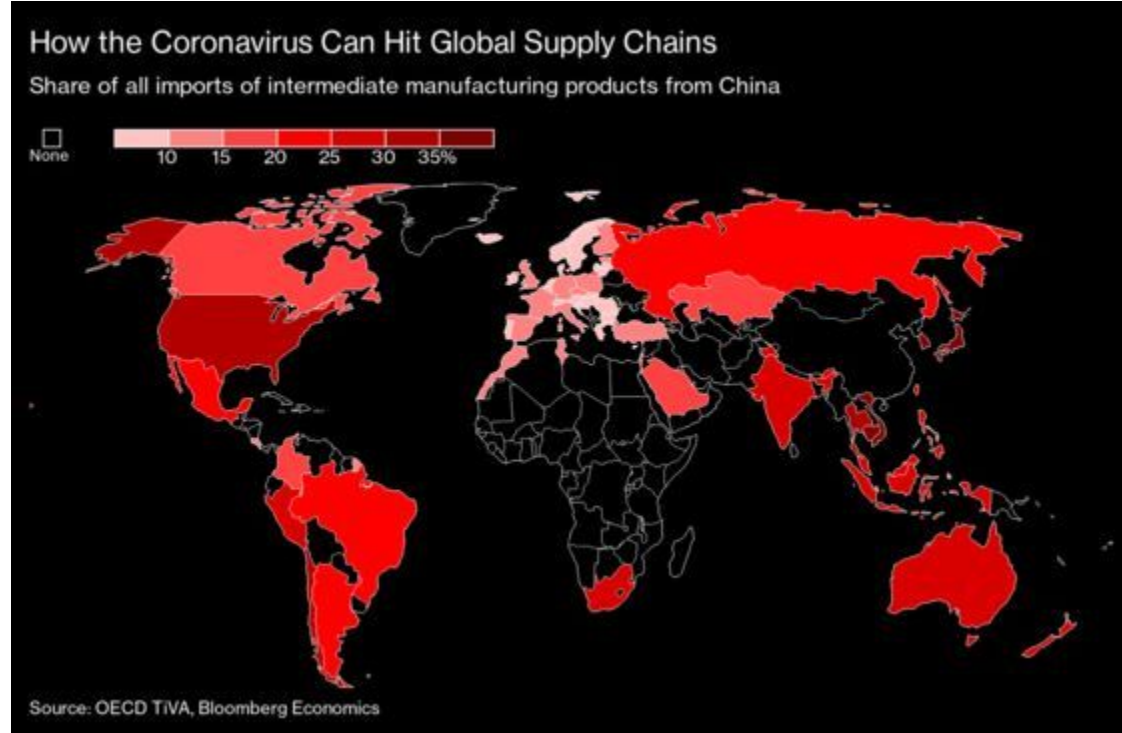

The Negative Effects of Globalization

Rise in Health Risk.

When the first-known case of AIDS came up in America, only few would have traced its origin to Sub-Saharan Africa. Globalization brought people from various countries together, and this is perhaps the reason that a virus from a jungle was transported to almost every country in the world.

How is the Supply Chain an example of Globalization?

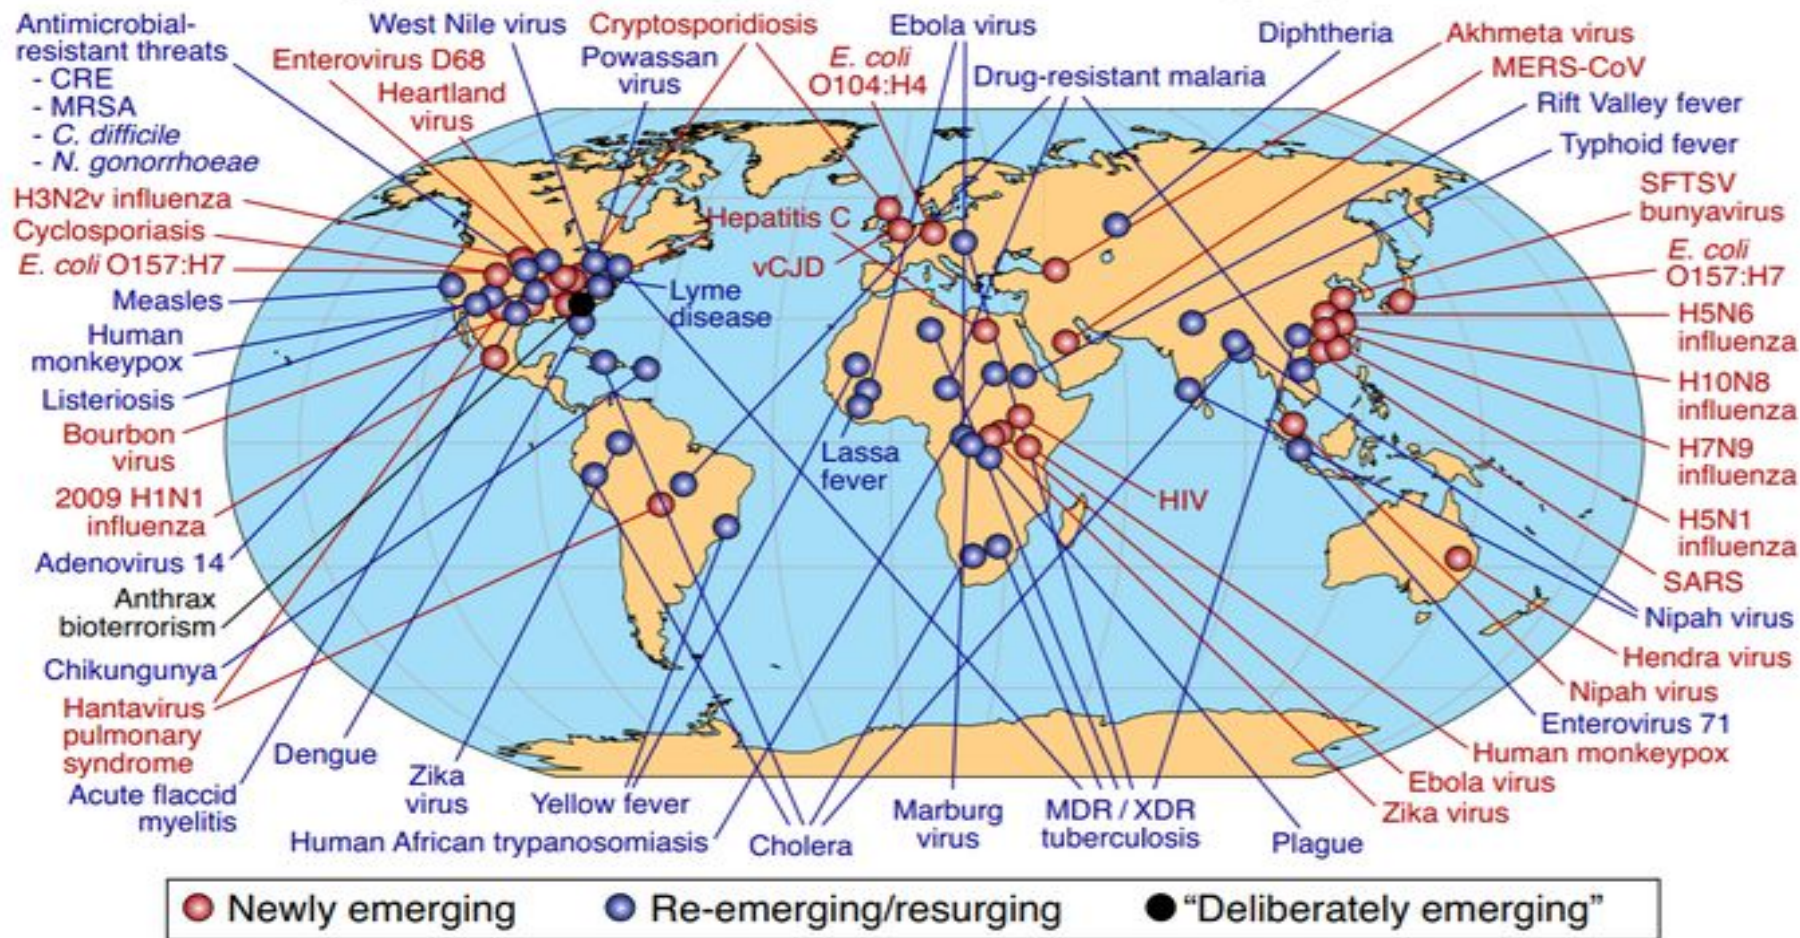

How is the Supply

Chain an example of Globalization? Answers will vary

-- China trades around the world and influences a lot of areas. The US relies on China more than any other country.

Global Examples of Emerging and Re-Emerging Diseases: WHO

Reflection

After learning about Globalization negative effects, what is the biggest takeaway you have? (Write a paragraph about it.)