German 1

May 13, 2020

Lesson: May 13, 2020

Objective/Learning Target:

I can say the months of the year in German and say which month I was born in.

Bellwork. The following sentences are mixed up. Correct them to match the current day [Wednesday].

Heute ist Donnerstag

Morgen ist Mittwoch

Gestern war Dienstag

Correct answers (assuming you're doing this on Wednesday)

Heute ist Mittwoch

Morgen ist Donnerstag

Gestern war Dienstag

It's important when communicating that pronunciation is correct. Here's a youtube that covers the month in a succinct way. Do make sure you're saying the words after the speaker to practice making the sounds yourself.

To say which month you are born in, you use this short phrase.

Ich habe im _____ Geburtstag.

For example-- My birthday is in January so I would say:

Ich habe im Januar Geburtstag.

Homework: Using the list that you made for slide 3, make a similar list. In other words, write out the 4 seasons in German then list each month in German under each season.

Summer

Fall

Winter

Spring

Like this, but in German! Don't forget to fill in the months! [No need to get specific with dates and whatnot, just write in the months that feel like they fit in each season.]

Here's my list. Was your list similar? Did we agree on some of the months?

Sommer

Herbst

Winter

Frühling

Juni

September

Dezember

Marz

Juli

Oktober

Januar

April

August

November

Februar

Mai

Challenge:

Write down each month and then do an internet search: Try to find one major holiday celebrated in German-speaking countries for each Month.
