Disney and Dalí began collaboration of an animated film in 1946. Dalí created 22 paintings and 135 storyboards, drawing and sketches. Disney studios created 20 seconds of original animation based on Dalí's works.

It was shelved due to financial constraints due to WWII. It was picked back up until 1999 when Roy Disney decided to bring it back after Fantasia 2000 was released.

Wanting to be authentic to the original art, Disney brought back original animators to complete the work. It was released in 2003 and earned a Academy Award nomination for Best Animated Short Film
