Work Ethic – Be Smart with That Money

April 29th, 2020

Objective: Students who enter the manufacturing workforce must be taught the “ethics of work” in a way that relates to their personal lives as well as to the manufacturing environment that they will be a part of on a daily basis.

Bell Ringer

What do you do with your money?
Are you living from payday to payday or are you saving any?

Introduction

In this lesson, we are going to focus on the value of being wise with the money you have earned. Many young people (as well as adults) do not have a clue on how to manage their money. This may be from a lack of knowledge or it could be that they simply choose not to manage their money.

Introduction Continued

There is a very wise way to manage your money and make it work FOR you and your family. A huge part of work ethic is that we are to take the responsibility of providing for our families very seriously. It's not just about bringing in a paycheck but managing that paycheck in a way that not only provides financial security but also gives us a means to help others in need.

Introduction Continued

“Living beyond one’s means” is a very dangerous thing and we do not want you to fall into this trap.

Introduction Continued

The following recourses will help you in this financial unit about budgeting, money management, investing, understanding your taxes, and deciphering your paycheck. You will be doing a personal budget based on an entry-level welding/machining job in the state of Missouri. Please answer the following questions.

Resource

Here are the resources that has been provided for you. These sites will help you answer some the questions.

Assignment

You will be writing a paper for this lesson. You are to write your thoughts to the following questions. 1 page typed is the format we will use. Proper spelling and punctuation are expected. All papers will be typed. No exceptions. You are to freely give your opinion even if your opinion disagrees with the teacher.

Make an effort and write a well thought out paper. In the real world of work you will be paid to give an excellent effort, each and every day. Marginal effort in the workforce results in you getting fired, your company suffering the consequences of your poor effort, and customers not getting what they deserve and paid for. So with that being said, start out with good work ethic on the papers you write.

Questions

1. Do you have a budget of any kind for the money you earn?

2. When it comes to money, are you a Spender, a Saver, or a Tight Wad? Please explain how you tend to roll with the money you make or receive. Give some thought as to why you are the way you are with money. Write your thoughts down as to why you think you manage money the way you do.

Questions

3. If you work, do you specifically save any amount of your paycheck and if so, how much and how do you specifically save it?

4. If you get money for a birthday or a Christmas gift etc., do you tend to save any of it or do you just spend it?

Questions

5. Do you currently contribute to any type of charity, like to your church, etc.? If so, please list the organizations and/or “causes” to which you contribute.

6. How important is it to you to contribute to charities, those in need, your church, or causes you believe in? Explain in detail your thoughts on this topic. Most young people do not think in these terms at this point in life. In the future, do you plan to contribute to others in need and other nonprofit organizations? If so, please list the entities you plan to contribute to and WHY you chose these entities as a place to give your money. Be very specific here and give the details.

Questions

7. As you look to the future from this point in life, what are 3 major financial goals you would like to have accomplished by the time you are 30?

8. REAL LIFE SITUATION: This is a tough one to think about but let's say you were a married young adult, you have a child and you found out that you had a terminal disease. What are 3 financial "safety nets" or assurances that you would want to have in place for your family before you passed on?

Questions

9. “Wisdom is a shelter as money is a shelter, but the advantage of wisdom is this: Wisdom preserves those who have it.” What do you think this means?

10. In our past work ethic assignments, we have talked about how the love of money and the want for material things can make us lose sight of what is really important in life. What is something special and enjoyable you would like to “do or have” that you will need to save for? Why is this so meaningful for you?

Questions

11. A very wise person once said, “Don’t be a slave to the lender”. What do you think this means for your life? What “things” do you think are “ok” to be in debt for?

12. Define the term “frugal”. Do you think living this way can be taken too far? Please explain.

Questions

13. What is something you regularly spend money on that is not needed and is actually excessive, wasteful, and/or addictive? (Example-Chew, lattes, junk food, Energy drinks, cigarettes, pop, candy, etc.)

14. REAL LIFE SCENARIO: You see an amazing deal on something you really like but surely do not need. You had not planned to purchase the item but the “deal” makes you seem crazy to pass it up. If you could afford it, would you buy it impulsively just because it was such a good deal? Yes or no and why?
