Background: This is a review lesson from earlier in the school year

- Identify and use shapes
- Create artwork that communicates ideas about people.
- Create an original portrait (of self or other person)

Let's Get Started: Watch this video about portraits. Click here.

Let's Get Started: Can you make a portrait? How about a self-portrait of yourself? Click here

Practice #1:

Which of these are a portrait? How do you know?

Which one shows a person as the most important thing?

Practice #2:

Which of these are a portrait? How do you know?

Which one shows a person as the most important thing?

Practice #3:

What do you notice that's different about this portrait? What colors and shapes do you see?

How do the colors make you feel?

Practice on your own: creating self-portraits out of objects found in nature

Remember: A self-portrait is a picture of yourself!

Step 1: Gather materials.
Ask an adult if they will go outside with you.
Think of everything you will need for all of your facial features.

Facial features:
eyes, nose,
mouth, ears,
glasses, etc.
