Practice Skills Known and new techniques

Small, loose sketches of objects we find or design concepts Illustrate- To illustrate means to make something clear using a visual aid; such as charts, graphs, and pictures.

We see illustrations in so many places without even realizing it. Text books, cook books, reading books, signs, menus, doctors offices, instruction manuals... the list goes on! Can you name some places I have not?

Today for our Thumbnail exercise, THINK about your favorite recipe. If you do not know how it is made you may need to research it or ask the person who makes it. Write down the steps. You need at least 5.

Create a quick thumbnail sketch for each step. It can be of the food, the action, the tools used.. Your choice!

Did you know not all sketching has to be done in pencil.. You can practice and sketch in paints too. Think back to Van Gogh's watercolor studies that he sent his brother Theo. These were his sketches! If you have watercolors at home try sketching with these instead.

To be honest I'm in a creative slump here with snacks and dinners. I hope I can follow some new illustration thumbnails to spice up my menu!

send them to your art teachers if you can!
