

CLASS: 6TH GRADE ART

April 21, 2020

TUESDAY

- Learning Target: How do artists see and describe artwork?

How can looking at an object with “artist eyes” change what we see?

One of the things that helps with criticism is thinking and seeing like an artist.

When you are looking at things with "artist eyes," you start to see things a little differently.

You can discover a new way to look at the world from Google Earth here:

READING THE ALPHABET FROM SPACE

<https://earth.google.com/web/@0.00000005,-0.00000016,127.64468021a,2.0000000d,35y,0.00000014h,0t,0r/data=CjcSNRIgMjJIZmU3MGNmOTIyMTFhNmFiOGNmM2VjYmM2MmJmZjAiEW5hc2Ffc3BsYXNoc2NyZWVu>

It may a minute to load, but be sure you are on the “Reading the Alphabet...” tour. Scroll through the images at your own pace. When you have seen all the images answer the following questions on your own paper.

Answer these 4 questions about what you saw on Reading the Alphabet From Space:

1. Which letter do you think was the most obvious? Give location and sketch or describe the Google Earth image.

2. Which letter do you think was the least obvious? Give location and sketch or describe the Google Earth image.

Answer these 4 questions about what you saw on Reading the Alphabet From Space:

3. What letter was located farthest from you on the globe? Give location and sketch or describe the Google Earth image.

4. What letter was located closest to you on the globe? Give location and sketch or describe the Google Earth image.

Scavenger hunt assignment:

Look around your house and/or go walk through your neighborhood. Take a photo or sketch letters you can see in everyday objects.

Be sure to make a note of where you found the letter and if it's a part of something else.

I sometimes challenge myself when I travel to find letters then make them into photo books for a souvenir. Here are some examples from my alphabet hunts.
